From the moment you step onto its soft sand and experience its beautiful and tranquil setting, you'll realize instantly why this is one of Uluwatu's most idyllic natural havens.

Once only accessible via neighboring Padang (Labuan Sait) beach and a short trek down a picturesque and rugged staircase will lead you to its yellow sand and two-toned blue water. The turquoise water is calm enough for swimming, which isn't always the case in Bali, where the ocean is more suited for surfing during low tide, you can venture out and find some of the rocky outcrops, secluded beaches, and small caves along the nearby coastline. Our local guide may take you to a nearby beach with easier access during high tide.

Then you'll explore the clifftop of Uluwatu Temple and watch a mesmerizing Kecak Dance Performance. This is a must and one of its highlights is the Kecak fire and dance show that takes place at night. Get to see the locals put on an enchanting show with traditional and hypnotic Kecak dances with swirling flames and vibrant cultural outfits, all while enjoying the sublime sunset; the show is perfectly timed just in time for it. This will surely make for a more memorable trip to the island.
